Dear Neighbor,

Michigan hunters play an important role in ensuring our treasured natural resources remain here for future generations to enjoy. Hunting license sales make up the largest source of support for efforts to conserve Michigan’s wildlife, public lands and waters. Our state’s abundant natural resources make it one of the top destinations for hunters, boosting tourism and strengthening our state economy. Outdoor sporting in Michigan attracts roughly 750,000 hunters annually, resulting in an estimated $1.3 billion more per year for Michigan’s economy.

I respect the important contributions hunters make, and I am proud to support efforts to expand the mentored youth hunting program and address the dwindling number of young sports enthusiasts engaged in hunting and fishing activities in Michigan.

This autumn and beyond, I encourage you to consider taking a child, grandchild or friend along to help them develop an appreciation for one of our most time-honored traditions.

Happy hunting.
